Dear :

This is in reply to your request for a ruling that $x you received in Year 3 and any payment you receive from Department for the wrongful death of B, your c, are excludable from your gross income under § 104(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

FACTS

Your c was one of w individuals killed in Incident. In Year 1, the estates of those killed and their survivors (including you) entered into a joint prosecution agreement (JPA) to pursue claims for damages against Entity1 and its officials who were responsible for Incident. The JPA sets forth how the plaintiffs will divide any amounts they recover in litigation or settlement of their claims.

Initial litigation The estates of those killed and their survivors initially sued Entity1 in Court in Year 1. The causes of action included claims for survivorship, wrongful death, and intentional infliction of severe emotional distress. You sought recovery for intentional infliction of severe emotional distress caused by the death of your c. In Year 2, Court granted summary judgment for plaintiffs on the issue of liability. In Year 3, Court awarded the plaintiffs an aggregate recovery of $v for compensatory damages, prejudgment interest, and punitive damages. You were awarded an aggregate of $y, $r against T and $q against Z.

Sale of damage award While Court award of damages was on appeal (and no later than Date 2), you sold your rights to a portion of your damage award to an investor for an immediate cash payment of $x, plus a graduated rate of return on that amount. You received the $x on or about Date 3. Several other plaintiffs also sold portions of their damage awards to the investor.

Legislative settlement Subsequently, on Date 4, Entity2 passed the Act to provide fair compensation to all Entity2 Claimants who have f claims for wrongful death and physical injury (including claims for emotional distress) against Entity1 through a comprehensive settlement of those claims. Upon Entity1's payment to Entity2, the Act voided all prior court proceedings and judgments for f claims by Entity2 Claimants against Entity1 or its officials, and permanently precluded Entity2 Claimants from asserting f claims against Entity1 or its officials. On Date 5, Entity1 and Entity2 entered into the Agreement to resolve all f claims against Entity1. Entity1 then transferred $t to Entity2, which will be paid to claimants covered by the Agreement. Thus, pursuant to the Act, Court award of damages to the plaintiffs was voided and has been vacated.

Agency has established procedures to compensate victims pursuant to the Agreement. As a survivor of an individual killed in Incident, you must file a claim with Department to recover damages for claims of wrongful death based on the death of your c.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Section 104(a)(2) provides, in general, that gross income does not include the amount of any damages received (whether by suit or agreement) on account of personal physical injuries or physical sickness.

Section 1.104-1(c) of the Income Tax Regulations provides that the term "damages received (whether by suit or agreement)" means an amount received through prosecution of a legal suit or action based upon tort or tort type rights or through a settlement agreement entered into in lieu of such prosecution.

Section 1605 of the Small Business Job Protection Act of 1996 limits the exclusion from gross income provided by § 104(a)(2) to amounts received on account of personal physical injuries or physical sickness (subject to one exception). In H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 104-737 at 301 (1996), Congress expressed its intent concerning the treatment of wrongful death damages and emotional distress damages attributable to a physical injury:

[D]amages (other than punitive damages) received on account of a claim of wrongful death continue to be excludable from taxable income as under present law. ... Because all damages received on account of physical injury or physical sickness are excludable from gross income, the exclusion from gross income applies to any damages received based on a claim of emotional distress that is attributable to physical injury or physical sickness.

The action you brought in Court and the claim you file with Department each seek recovery of damages for emotional distress attributable to a personal physical injury. These claims are based in tort under § 1.104-1(c).

Court granted summary judgment on the issue of liability on your claim of intentional infliction of severe emotional distress due to the death of your c and had awarded $y for compensatory damages, interest, and punitive damages. You exchanged your right to recover a portion of the award for an immediate cash payment of $x. That $x takes the place of Court's award. To the extent that the $x represents compensatory damages awarded for wrongful death and associated emotional distress, it is excludable from your income under § 104(a)(2).

Under the Act, any recovery of compensatory damages that Department awards you is for the wrongful death of your c. This wrongful death recovery (as adjusted by the JPA) is excludable from your income under § 104(a)(2).

CONCLUSIONS

Based strictly on the information submitted and the representations made, we conclude that—

1. The amount you receive from Department (as adjusted by the JPA) for the wrongful death of your c is excludable from your gross income under § 104(a)(2), except for any interest received.
2. The portion of the $x representing amounts received on account of a personal physical injury is excludable from your gross income under § 104(a)(2).

We do not express or imply an opinion on the federal tax consequences of any aspect of these transactions other than those expressed in conclusions 1 and 2, above. Specifically, we do not express an opinion about what portion, if any, of $x is properly allocable to damages received on account of a personal physical injury. See § 4.02(10) of Rev. Proc. 2009-3, 2009-1 I.R.B. 107, 115. In addition, we do not express any opinion whether your transaction with the investor constituted a sale for federal income tax purposes. See § 4.02(1) of Rev. Proc. 2009-3 at 115.

This ruling is directed only to the taxpayer requesting it. Section 6110(k)(3) provides that it may not be used or cited as precedent.
