Dear :

This letter responds to your authorized representatives' letter of May 19, 2022, and subsequent correspondence, requesting rulings regarding the income, estate, gift, and generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax consequences of the proposed division of Trust 1.

The facts and representations submitted are as follows:

Grandparent died on Date 1, leaving the residue of Grandparent's probate estate in equal shares to Trust 1 and Trust 2, testamentary trusts established under Will. Trust 1 is held for the benefit of Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 1's descendants, and Trust 2 is held for the benefit of Grandchild 2 and Grandchild 2's descendants. Grandchild 1 has five children, Great-Grandchild 1, Great-Grandchild 2, Great-Grandchild 3, Great-Grandchild 4, and Great-Grandchild 5. Grandchild 2 has one child, Great-Grandchild 6. Neither Grandchild 1 nor Grandchild 2 has any deceased children. Trustees serve as trustees of Trust 1. Trust 1 is the subject of this ruling request.

Section 9(a) of Trust 1 provides that Trustees may distribute the net income of Trust 1 to or for the benefit of Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 1's descendants in such proportions and at such times as Trustees determine is desirable or necessary, considering their needs, best interests, and other sources of income, or may annually accumulate and add all or part of the net income to the principal of Trust 1.

Section 9(b) of Trust 1 provides that Trustees may distribute the principal of Trust 1 to or for the benefit of Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 1's descendants in such proportions and at such times as Trustees determine is desirable or necessary for their medical care, comfortable maintenance, education, or general support and welfare, considering their other resources.

Section 9(c) of Trust 1 provides that Trust 1 will terminate 21 years after the death of the survivor of Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 2, and the principal of Trust 1 will be distributed to Grandchild 1's descendants, per stirpes. If, however, Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 1's descendants all die before that date, Trust 1 will terminate early, and the principal of Trust 1 will be distributed to Trust 2.

Grandchild 1's descendants have differing personal and financial situations and, consequently, Trustees, propose to divide Trust 1 along family lines into five separate shares (Resulting Trusts), one for the benefit of each of Grandchild 1's children and their respective descendants plus Grandchild 1, and to fund each Resulting Trust with one-fifth of each asset of Trust 1 (Proposed Division). Any distribution to Grandchild 1 from a Resulting Trust will be made pro rata from each Resulting Trust. The provisions of each Resulting Trust otherwise will be identical and unchanged from the provisions of Trust 1.

In accordance with Trust 1, each Resulting Trust will terminate 21 years after the death of the survivor of Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 2, and the principal will be distributed to the child of Grandchild 1 for whom Resulting Trust was created or, if such child is deceased, to the child's descendants, per stirpes. If, however, Grandchild 1, the child of Grandchild 1 for whom Resulting Trust was created, and such child's descendants all die before that date, Resulting Trust will terminate early, and the principal will be distributed equally among the other Resulting Trusts. If Grandchild 1 and Grandchild 1's descendants all die before that date, the principal instead will be distributed to Trust 2.

Under the authority of Statutes, Court issued Order on Date 2 and Amended Order on Date 3 authorizing the Proposed Division upon receipt of a favorable private letter ruling from the Internal Revenue Service.

Trust 1 was irrevocable prior to September 25, 1985, and no additions, actual or constructive, have been made to Trust 1.

You request the following rulings:

1. Proposed Division will not cause Trust 1 or any Resulting Trust to lose grandfathered status for purposes of the GST tax, or otherwise become subject to GST tax.
2. Proposed Division will not be treated as a distribution and cause any Resulting Trust to recognize income, gain or loss from a sale or other disposition of property under § 61, § 661, § 662, or § 1001.

3. The adjusted basis and holding period of each of the Resulting Trust assets will be the same as the adjusted basis and holding periods of the Trust 1 assets under § 1015 and § 1223(2).
4. Proposed Division will not cause such assets to be includable in the gross estate of any of the beneficiaries under § 2036, § 2037, or § 2038.
5. Proposed Division will not constitute a transfer subject to federal gift tax under § 2501.

Ruling 1

Section 2601 imposes a tax on every GST, which is defined under § 2611 as a taxable distribution, a taxable termination, and a direct skip.

Under § 1433(a) of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 (Act) and § 26.2601-1(a) of the Generation-Skipping Transfer Tax Regulations, the GST tax is generally applicable to generation-skipping transfers made after October 22, 1986. However, under § 1433(b)(2)(A) of the Act and § 26.2601-1(b)(1)(i), the tax does not apply to a transfer under a trust that was irrevocable on September 25, 1985, but only to the extent that such transfer is not made out of corpus added to the trust after September 25, 1985 (or out of income attributable to corpus so added).

Section 26.2601-1(b)(4)(i) provides rules for determining when a modification, judicial construction, settlement agreement, or trustee action with respect to a trust that is exempt from the GST tax will not cause the trust to lose its exempt status. In general, unless specifically provided otherwise, the rules contained in this paragraph are applicable only for purposes of determining whether an exempt trust retains its exempt status for GST tax purposes. Thus (unless specifically noted), the rules do not apply in determining, for example, whether the transaction results in a gift subject to gift tax, or may cause the trust to be included in the gross estate of a beneficiary, or may result in the realization of gain for purposes of § 1001.

Section 26.2601-1(b)(4)(i)(D) provides that a modification of the governing instrument of an exempt trust (including a trustee distribution, settlement, or construction that does not satisfy § 26.2601-1(b)(4)(i)(A), (B), or (C)) by judicial reformation, or nonjudicial reformation that is valid under applicable state law, will not cause an exempt trust to be subject to the provisions of chapter 13, if the modification does not shift a beneficial interest in the trust to any beneficiary who occupies a lower generation (as defined in § 2651) than the person or persons who held the beneficial interest prior to the modification, and the modification does not extend the time for vesting of any beneficial interest in the trust beyond the period provided for in the original trust. A modification of an exempt trust will result in a shift in beneficial interest to a lower generation beneficiary if the modification can result in either an increase in the amount of a GST or the creation of a new GST.

Section 26.2601-1(b)(4)(i)(E), Example 5, provides as follows. In 1980, Trustor established an irrevocable trust for the benefit of his two children, A and B, and their issue. Under the terms of the trust, the trustee has the discretion to distribute income and principal to A, B, and their issue in such amounts as the trustee deems appropriate. On the death of the last to die of A and B, the trust principal is to be distributed to the living issue of A and B, per stirpes. In 2002, the appropriate local court approved the division of the trust into two equal trusts, one for the benefit of A and A's issue and one for the benefit of B and B's issue. The trust for A and A's issue provides that the trustee has the discretion to distribute trust income and principal to A and A's issue in such amounts as the trustee deems appropriate. On A's death, the trust principal is to be distributed equally to A's issue, per stirpes. If A dies with no living descendants, the principal will be added to the trust for B and B's issue. The trust for B and B's issue is identical (except for the beneficiaries), and terminates at B's death at which time the trust principal is to be distributed equally to B's issue, per stirpes. If B dies with no living descendants, principal will be added to the trust for A and A's issue. The division of the trust into two trusts does not shift any beneficial interest in the trust to a beneficiary who occupies a lower generation (as defined in § 2651) than the person or persons who held the beneficial interest prior to the division. In addition, the division does not extend the time for vesting of any beneficial interest in the trust beyond the period provided for in the original trust. Therefore, the two partitioned trusts resulting from the division will not be subject to the provisions of chapter 13.

In the present case, Trust 1 was irrevocable on September 25, 1985. It is represented that no additions, actual or constructive, have been made to Trust 1 after that date.

Proposed Division is substantially similar to the situation described in § 26.2601-1(b)(4)(i)(E), Example 5. Under Proposed Division, Resulting Trusts will, except as described above, be administered under the original provisions of Trust 1.

Based on the facts submitted and the representations made, we conclude that Proposed Division will not shift any beneficial interest in Trust 1 to a person who occupies a lower generation than the persons holding the beneficial interest prior to Proposed Division. In addition, Proposed Division will not extend the time for vesting of any beneficial interest beyond the period provided for in Trust 1. Accordingly, Proposed Division will not cause Trust 1 or any Resulting Trust to lose grandfathered status for purposes of the GST tax, or otherwise become subject to GST tax.

Ruling 2

Section 61(a)(3) and (15) provides that gross income includes gains derived from dealings in property and income from an interest in a trust.

Section 661(a) provides that in any taxable year a deduction is allowed in computing the taxable income of a trust (other than a trust to which subpart B applies), for the sum of (1) the amount of income for such taxable year required to be distributed currently; and (2) any other amounts properly paid or credited or required to be distributed for such taxable year.

Section 1.661(a)-2(f) of the Income Tax Regulations provides that gain or loss is realized by the trust or estate (or the other beneficiaries) by reason of a distribution of property in kind if the distribution is in satisfaction of a right to receive a distribution of a specific dollar amount, of specific property other than that distributed, or of income as defined under § 643(b) and the applicable regulations, if income is required to be distributed currently.

Section 662 provides that there shall be included in the gross income of a beneficiary to whom an amount specified in § 661(a) is paid, credited, or required to be distributed (by an estate or trust described in § 661), the sum of the following amounts: (1) the amount of income for the taxable year required to be distributed currently to such beneficiary, whether distributed or not; and (2) all other amounts properly paid, credited, or required to be distributed to such beneficiary for the taxable year.

Section 1001(a) provides that the gain from the sale or other disposition of property shall be the excess of the amount realized therefrom over the adjusted basis provided in § 1011 for determining gain, and the loss shall be the excess of the adjusted basis provided in § 1011 for determining loss over the amount realized.

Section 1001(b) states that the amount realized from the sale or other disposition of property shall be the sum of any money received plus the fair market value of the property (other than money) received. Under § 1001(c), except as otherwise provided in subtitle A, the entire amount of gain or loss, determined under § 1001, on the sale or exchange of property shall be recognized.

Section 1.1001-1(a) provides that the gain or loss realized from the conversion of property into cash, or from the exchange of property for other property differing materially either in kind or in extent, is treated as income or loss sustained.

A partition of jointly owned property is not a sale or other disposition of property where the co-owners of the joint property sever their joint interests, but do not acquire a new or additional interest as a result thereof. Thus, neither gain nor loss is realized on a partition. See Rev. Rul. 56-437, 1956-2 C.B. 507 (conversion of a joint tenancy in stock to a tenancy in common in order to eliminate the survivorship feature and the partition of a joint tenancy in stock are not sales or exchanges).

Similarly, divisions of trusts are also not sales or exchanges of trust interests where each asset is divided pro rata among the new trusts. See Rev. Rul. 69-486, 1969-2 C.B. 159 (pro rata distribution of trust assets not a sale or exchange).

In the present case, the legal entitlements, as well as the rights and powers, of the beneficiaries will remain the same in kind and extent after Proposed Division. Accordingly, based on the facts submitted and representations made, Proposed Division will not result in the realization of gain or loss under § 61 and § 1001. Moreover, based solely on the facts submitted and representations made, we conclude that Proposed Division is not a distribution under § 661 or § 1.661(a)-2(f). We further conclude that Proposed Division will not cause Trust 1, Resulting Trusts, or the beneficiaries of Trust 1 or any Resulting Trust to recognize any income under § 662.

Ruling 3

Section 1015(b) provides that if property is acquired after December 31, 1920, by a transfer in trust (other than a transfer in trust by a gift, bequest, or devise), the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the grantor increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the grantor on such transfer.

Section 1.1015-2(a)(1) provides that in the case of property acquired after December 31, 1920, by transfer in trust (other than by transfer in trust by gift, bequest, or devise), the basis of property so acquired is the same as it would be in the hands of the grantor increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the grantor on the transfer under the law applicable to the year in which the transfer was made. If the taxpayer acquired the property by transfer in trust, this basis applies whether the property is in the hands of the trustee or the beneficiary, and whether acquired prior to termination of the trust and distribution of the property, or thereafter.

Section 1223(2) provides that in determining the period for which the taxpayer has held property, however it is acquired, there shall be included the period for which the property was held by any other person, if under this chapter such property has, for the purpose of determining gain or loss from a sale or exchange, the same basis in whole or in part in his hands as it would have in the hands of the other person.

Based on the facts submitted and the representations made, we conclude that because § 1001 does not apply to Proposed Division, under § 1015 the basis of the assets received by Resulting Trusts will be the same as the respective basis of the assets held by Trust 1. We further conclude that under § 1223(2) the holding periods of the assets received by Resulting Trusts will be the same as the holding periods of the assets in Trust 1.

Ruling 4

Section 2001(a) imposes a tax on the transfer of the taxable estate of every decedent who is a citizen or resident of the United States.

Section 2033 provides that the value of the gross estate includes the value of all property to the extent of the interest therein of the decedent at the time of death.

Section 2036(a) provides that the value of the gross estate shall include the value of all property to the extent of any interest therein of which the decedent has at any time made a transfer (except in case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), by trust or otherwise, under which he has retained for his life or for any period not ascertainable without reference to his death or for any period which does not in fact end before his death (1) the possession or enjoyment of, or the right to the income from, the property, or (2) the right, either alone or in conjunction with any person, to designate the persons who shall possess or enjoy the property or the income therefrom.

Section 2037(a) provides that the value of the gross estate shall include the value of all property to the extent of any interest therein of which the decedent has at any time made a transfer (except in case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), by trust or otherwise, if (1) possession or enjoyment of the property can, through ownership of such interest, be obtained only by surviving the decedent, and (2) the decedent has retained a reversionary interest in the property, and the value of such reversionary interest immediately before the death of the decedent exceeds 5 percent of the value of such property.

Section 2038(a)(1) provides that the value of the gross estate shall include the value of all property to the extent of any interest therein of which the decedent has at any time made a transfer (except in case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth), by trust or otherwise, where the enjoyment thereof was subject at the date of decedent's death to any change through the exercise of a power, either by the decedent alone or in conjunction with any person, to alter, amend, revoke, or terminate, or where the decedent relinquished any such power during the 3-year period ending on the date of the decedent's death.

In order for § 2036 through § 2038 to apply, the decedent must have made a transfer of property or any interest therein (except in the case of a bona fide sale for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth) under which the decedent retained an interest in, or power over, the income or corpus of the transferred property.

In the present case, the beneficiaries of Resulting Trusts will have the same interests after Proposed Division that they had as beneficiaries under Trust 1. The distribution, management, and termination provisions of each Resulting Trust will be substantially similar to the current distribution, management, and distribution provisions of Trust 1. Accordingly, based on the facts submitted and the representations made, we conclude that Proposed Division will not cause any portion of the assets of Resulting Trusts to be includible in the gross estate of any of the beneficiaries of Resulting Trusts under § 2036, § 2037, or § 2038.

Ruling 5

Section 2501 imposes a tax for each calendar year on the transfer of property by gift during such calendar year by any individual, resident or nonresident.

Section 2511 provides that, subject to certain limitations, the gift tax applies whether the transfer is in trust or otherwise, direct or indirect, and whether the property transferred is real or personal, tangible or intangible.

Section 2512(a) provides that if the gift is made in property, the value thereof at the date of the gift is considered the amount of the gift.

Section 2512(b) provides that where property is transferred for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth, then the amount by which the value of the property exceeded the value of the consideration is deemed a gift that is included in computing the amount of gifts made during the calendar year.

In the present case, the beneficial interests, rights, and expectancies of the beneficiaries will be substantially the same, both before and after Proposed Division. Thus, no transfer of property will be deemed to occur as a result of Proposed Division. Accordingly, based on the facts submitted and representations made, we conclude that Proposed Division will not result in a transfer by any beneficiary of Trust 1 that is subject to the gift tax under § 2501.

Except as expressly provided herein, no opinion is expressed or implied concerning the tax consequences of any aspect of any transaction or item discussed or referenced in this letter.
